The Canadian Corporation for
Studies in Religion presents:

For the past two years, Diana, Néstor, Paul, and Mona have met as a small CCSR working group to discuss matters of diversity, equity, and decolonization in the context of the “study of religion” in Canada. Please join us for our first open roundtable conversation as we begin to unpack our positionality and consider how to disrupt colonialism in our everyday thinking, our academic disciplines.

Registration is required, but the conversation is free of charge and open to all who are interested, especially members of CCSR societies and students.
